Appeal from Lancaster county. Re-versed. Sullivan, J.

1. One cannot, except under special cir-

conditional contract of which he is ignorant.

6. The doctrine of election between inconsistent remedies, has no application to a case where a party declares upon an express contract and demands whatever relief he may be entitled to thereunder.

7. The lien of an ordinary mortgage is not subordinate to mechanic's liens, merely because the money which it was given to secure was loaned for the purpose of improving the mortgaged premises, and under an express contract that it should be so used.

8. A finding of the trial court upon conflicting evidence as to the amount due upon a mechanic's lien will not be disturbed unless clearly shown.

9. An architect is entitled to a mechanic's lien upon a building which has been constructed in accordance with plans prepared by him under contract with the owner.

10. Where labor or material has been fur-structed in accordance with plans prepared by him under contract with the owner.

10. Where labor or material has been furnished by a party under distinct contracts
the claim for a mechanic's lien under each contract must be filed within the time
limited by the statute for that purpose.

No. 8914. Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Company against Young. Error from Lancaster county. Reversed. Suilivan, J. Norval, J. concurring.

1. Alleged errors occurring at the trial of a law action cannot be reviewed, unless there is in the record authentic evidence that a motion for a new trial was overruled by the district court.

2. In an action to recover for injuries sustained by a person in consequence of the derailment of a railroad train upon which he was being transported as a passenger,
it is not indispensable that the petition should allege that the injury was the resuit of the wrongful act or omission of the carrier.

3. The presumption in such case is that

sult of the wrongful act or omission of the carrier.

3. The presumption in such case is that the accident was caused by the carrier's negligence; and it is unnecessary to plend what the law presumes.

4. The act of June 22, 1867, making railroad companies liable, in the absence of negligence, for injuries to passengers on their trains, is justifiable legislation under the police power of the state. It aims to promote safety in travel, and neither deprives such companies of their property without due pocess of law nor denies them the causi protection of the laws.

5. Unfor chapter 21. Compiled Statutes for 1897, known as Lord Campbell's act, the legal representative of a person who has died in consequence of an injury sustained through the wrongful act, neglect or default of another, has a right of action in all cases where the injured party might have maintained an action had he survived the injury.

6. Such action is for the benefit of the widow and next kin of the deceased and the recovery authorized is compensation for the pecuniary loss suffered. If the facts alleged in the petition do not show that the persons for whose benefit the suit was instituted had a pecuniary interest in the life of the deceased, the pleading is defective in substance.
